Approximately what percentage of program content will be completed online?

The M.Ed. degree in Curriculum and Instruction comprises eight concentrations:

| Concentrations | Proposed Delivery | | |
|--------------------------------------|-------------------------|--|--|
| Curriculum and Teaching Studies | Fully online and hybrid | | |
| Mathematics Education | Fully online and hybrid | | |
| English/Language Arts Education | Hybrid | | |
| Middle Childhood Education | Hybrid | | |
| Physical Education Teacher Education | Hybrid | | |
| Science Education | Hybrid | | |
| Social Studies Education | Hybrid | | |
| Secondary Education (new, see below) | On ground | | |

The Secondary Education concentration is being established for fall 2019. The target audience for the concentration is students who have completed the coursework towards Kent State's Master of Arts in Teaching degree in Secondary Education but who have not completed the licensure requirements of student teaching. By transferring to this program, the students will be awarded a master's degree but will not be eligible to apply for teaching licensure. All courses in the concentration are existing and regularly offered. There will be no direct admission into this concentration; students may enter only with a change of program initiated by their Secondary Education faculty advisor.

See next page for program requirements and course delivery.
